

2025

WWII

HA 2025 WWII trading cards feature WWII's major participants, why they fought, and the technology they used leading up to and including The Battle of Normandy and Liberation of Europe. See the villains, heroes, battles, and events that still shape our world today!

World War II (Sept. 1, 1939 – Sept. 2, 1945) was the deadliest war in history, in many respects a continuation of the disputes left unsettled by WWI. WWII was a global conflict of Axis belligerents led by Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy, and Imperial Japan vs. Allied defenders, led by Great Britain, the US, the USSR, and China. Combatants from most of the world's nations participated on one side or the other—some participated on both. All wars are horrible human excesses of aggression that bring sorrow and tragedy, but war also highlights humanity's ability to rise above the pain and forges heroes. HA 2025 WWII trading cards include the heroes and the good that came out in the war.

About Historic Autograph & Card Co.™, Home of the Real Relic™: *We produce the most fabulous, collectible, historically-based trading cards in the world. Before/After City Lenticular Insert

These cards feature WWII Before and After photographs of 24 different cities. The cards are covered with a lenticular lens—a sheet of plastic with many small lentil-shaped lenses (lenticules) that show different images from different angles. When you turn the card, you can see either the Before or After image. And, the image looks three dimensional because each of your eyes is seeing a slightly different image through the lenticular—stereoscopic vision.

Adventures of Smilin' Jack Vintage

The Adventures of Smilin' Jack was an action-packed aviation comic strip that first appeared in the 1933 Chicago Tribune and was picked up by the Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate.

The strip followed the title character who starts out as a nervous student pilot and becomes a barn-stormer—an acrobatic pilot who performs daredevil stunts at local fairs and festivals, and sells airplane rides to spectators. Jack builds his own airplanes which are shot down by rivals, taken for joy rides by friends, and hit by every storm on the Atlantic seaboard. Jack fights international criminals and villains including The Claw, Toemian the Terrible, The Head, and The Mongoose—Jack is often in peril! Fortunately he has many romantic interests to console him. These hot women are so meltingly beautiful that they became known as “de-icers.”

Smilin' Jack is the second handsomest man in the world—the handsomest is his co-pilot Downwind Jaxon, whose face is never shown because he is looking downwind. Smilin' Jack's appearance was based on air racing star Roscoe Turner. The strip was created by 27-year-old cartoonist Zack Mosley, “Smilin' Zack.”

In 1939, Smilin' Jack became a radio program sponsored by Tootsie Rolls, who offered a premium for ten candy wrappers—a flying chart just like the one Jack uses. Each radio episode began with announcer Tom Shirley demanding, “Clear the runway for Smilin' Jack!”, over the roar of an airplane. In 1943, Smilin' Jack became a movie serial—Smilin' Jack worked with the Chinese government to stop the Black Samurai, a Japanese spy ring led by the German operative Fraulein von Teufel.

The Smilin' Jack insert cards in HA's World War II were for sale at movie theaters circa 1943.
